Subject: Purestream Services/Water Treatment Animas Spill Clean-up

Joan,

You and I spoke in May about Purestream Services - we are a water treatment company operating in the oil and gas field, treating produced water for re-use and discharge.

We have been working with Lisa Biddle in the DC office, previous to this on produced water related issues. I've tried to contact her but it sounds like she is out of the office until next week.

We would like to talk with a site coordinator about the possibility of participating in the clean-up efforts for the animas spill. I've not been able to get through passed the receptionist on this. We really do have some good methods and technologies to clean and remediate the water.

Can you direct me to the person I should talk to? Many thanks,

Amy
